

A collage of three photographs showing active travel in a city. On the left, a woman in a brown coat and plaid skirt rides a bicycle on a wet street. In the center, a man and a woman walk towards the camera on a sidewalk, both holding open umbrellas. On the right, a person in a dark jacket and helmet rides a bicycle on a path. The background of the collage is a sepia-toned image of a large, historic building with a gabled roof.
